General Chemistry 161 Study Groups

The General Chemistry Study Groups program is offered by the university for FREE. Active participation in a study group will help you understand the concepts of general chemistry, which you can then apply to completing your homework and answering questions on exams.

What: General Chemistry Study Groups offer an opportunity for like-minded, serious students to summarize the week’s material and clear up any confusion. Each study group is led by an undergraduate student who will collaborate with your professors so that he/she can help participants in the group

- get organized
- understand general chemistry concepts and principles
- feel better-prepared for high stakes midterms and final exams

When and Where: Groups meet once each week for 80 minutes. This semester, 10 groups are offered on Busch and Livingston campus. Ten groups will be offered this fall with a capacity for 168 students to participate. You can view the meeting times and locations on the next page or through the website: https://secure.rutgers.edu/rlcstudygroup/login.aspx

These study groups are set up to help you understand the material so you can do well in the course. It is your responsibility to stay committed to the group and make the most of the opportunity offered to you.

- Don’t sign up unless you are serious about attending weekly. Attendance is mandatory and will be taken at the beginning of each session. You are allowed 2 absences; on the third absence you will be dropped from the session and your spot will be given to a student on the waiting list. If requested, the course instructor(s) will receive a list of students who completed the study groups.
- All sessions will be filled on a first come first served basis. Once they are filled, there will be no new sessions added. However, you can join a waiting list in case a spot becomes available.
- For questions: email program coordinator (learningassistants@echo.rutgers.edu)
- To register: visit the program website provided above.

REGISTRATION OPENS on Friday, Sept. 4th at noon and closes on Sunday, Sept. 6th at noon.

The groups will start the week of Tuesday, Sept. 8 (except Tuesday study groups which start the following week)
